JUVENILE PSALMIST.

France

DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS, TO WIT:

District Clerk's Office.

BE IT REMEMBERED, That on the first day of October, A. D. 1829, in the fifty-fourth year of the independence of the United States of America, Richardson, Lord & Holbrook, of the said district, have deposited in this office the title of a book, the right whereof they claim as proprietors, in the words following, to wit.

"Juvenile Psalmist; or, the Child's Introduction to Sacred Music. Prepared at the request of the 'Boston Sabbath School Union.' By Lowell Mason, Editor of the Boston Handel and Haydn Society Collection of Church Music.."

In conformity to the act of the Congress of the United States, entitled, "An Act for the encouragement of learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts, and books, to the authors and proprietors of such copies during the times therein mentioned;" and also to an act, entitled "An Act supplementary to an act, entitled 'An Act for the encouragement of learning, by securing the copies of maps, charts and books to the authors and proprietors of such copies during the times therein mentioned; and extending the benefits thereof to the arts of engraving, engraving and etching, historical and other prints.'"

JNO. W. DAVIS,

Clerk of the District of Massachusetts.

ADVERTISEMENT.

The design of this little book is to furnish children and youth generally and Sabbath Schools especially, with a suitable introduction to Psalmody.

The rudiments of music have been explained in a very plain and easy manner, and although brief, they are believed to be amply sufficient to enable children to read music, and sing understandingly.

The tunes are all easy. Most of them are generally known, and are in common use in the church. Some of them have been arranged in three parts. The upper part, or First Treble being the leading melody, should always be sung by girls, or female voices; the Second Treble or accompanying part may be sung either by girls or boys as is most convenient. Where there are men capable of singing, the base may be also sung; but the voices of men should never be heard on either of the upper parts, except in cases where the children have not confidence to sing alone.

It was originally intended to include a small selection of hymns, but it was found that this plan would too much increase both the price and size of the book.

It is believed that, with the aid here afforded, some Teacher may be found almost every Sabbath School, possessing a sufficient knowledge of music to instruct the children in singing. One or two hours in the week devoted to this subject would soon render this exercise in Sabbath Schools, pleasing and profitable, and would also prepare the way for a much more appropriate performance of Psalmody in public worship.

NOTE. Many persons, and even some teachers of music, seem to suppose that a knowledge of the rules is the principal thing to be acquired in learning to sing. This is a great mistake. The rules of musical notation are very few, and simple; and a child of ten or twelve years of age may be made to understand and apply them in a very few hours. But the great difficulty to be overcome in singing is the proper management of the voice. To acquire this is no easy task, and years of daily practice are indispensably necessary to any considerable degree of proficiency.

The constant practice of the ascending and descending scale in both modes, is recommended as one of the best means of tuning and improving the voice. This should be the first lesson in teaching singing, and it should never be discontinued.
